Gucci

Dear Hiring Team,

I'm thrilled to express my interest in the Chief of Staff role supporting the President and CEO of Gucci Americas. Gucci has always stood out to me not only as a fashion house but as a cultural force – one that blends heritage, imagination, and reinvention in a way few brands can. The opportunity to help steer its strategic priorities, shape organizational clarity, and enable high-impact execution across the region is deeply exciting to me.

Across my career, I've built a foundation in strategy, cross-functional leadership, and operational excellence that aligns naturally with the demands of this role. At McKinsey, I led engagements that required structuring ambiguous problems, driving alignment among senior stakeholders, and translating high-level vision into clear plans. More recently, in operating roles, I've partnered directly with executives to run strategic initiatives, streamline operations, and ensure teams were coordinated around the right priorities. I'm energized by environments where the bar is high, the agenda is evolving, and thoughtful execution makes the difference between momentum and stagnation.

What draws me most to this role is the chance to combine my strategic skill set with a brand I genuinely love. Gucci's commitment to craftsmanship, creativity, and cultural relevance is something I've admired for years, and I would bring both professional rigor and true passion to supporting the President's office. I'm particularly excited about the opportunity to help sharpen the Americas strategy, build connective tissue across teams, and ensure the organization is positioned to execute with focus and speed.

I would welcome the opportunity to contribute structure, insight, and energy to the President's priorities and to support Gucci's continued leadership in the Americas.

Thank you for your time and consideration. More about me can be found at www.jordanlockwood.com.

Sincerely,

Jordan Lockwood
